Investment Thesis

ERS's approach to real estate — the buy box criteria, conversion strategy, and land development framework for building the housing portfolio around BC's healthcare infrastructure.

THE THESIS

Housing near hospitals is underpriced, underserved, and mission-critical.

BC's healthcare staffing crisis is driven in large part by a housing crisis. ERS exists at the intersection of those two problems. The investment thesis is simple: acquire, convert, and develop workforce housing in proximity to hospitals, health authorities, and construction megaprojects — then lock in demand through long-term master leases and institutional contracts. Properties ERS controls become essential infrastructure. The earlier ERS enters a market, the deeper the moat.

ERS is not a speculative real estate fund. Every property decision is anchored to a demand source — a hospital, a health authority, a GC crew. If there's no demand anchor within the deal, we don't do the deal.

HOLD

Getting out of healthcare and onto the side of it.

The Mastermind is a private investment program for physicians, healthcare professionals, and mission-aligned investors who want to deploy capital into the housing infrastructure they believe in. ERS operates. Partners own equity. The thesis: healthcare workers are the best investors in healthcare worker housing — they understand the problem at a level no fund manager ever will.

Physician Investor Track

Doctors transitioning capital into real assets

- ✓ Passive equity — ERS operates, investor owns a share
- ✓ Minimum investment TBD — likely $100–250K per deal
- ✓ Returns tied to master lease cash flow + appreciation
- ✓ Access: Dr. Rob Johnson, Dr. Pierre (Whitehorse), referral network

Institutional / Fund Track

CMHC, credit unions, mission-aligned funds

- ✓ CMHC MLI Select — affordable workforce housing program
- ✓ Lakeview Credit Union — active relationship, mortgage in progress
- ✓ Impact-aligned private funds — ESG + housing mandate overlap
- Full institutional pitch deck — in development

The Mastermind is not yet launched. This section documents the structure as it's being built — so that when we're ready to bring the first partners in, the framework is already defined.
